You are cordially invited to attend the 5-year anniversary of the Sten K. Johnson Centre for Entrepreneurship. This grand event will take place on 18 January 2017.

During the celebrations you will have the opportunity to meet several knowledgeable entrepreneurs and hear about the interesting research developments that have occurred during the past 5 years.

You will also have a chance to meet Lena Apler, voted “the most powerful entrepreneur of the year” by Veckans Affärer, for both 2015 and 2016. Over 15 years, Lena has built her company Collector from scratch up to 370 employees and entered it into the stock market. A journey she describes as “a constantly creative process”. She will discuss ownership, business idea innovation, and more.

In the autumn of 2011, Sten K. Johnson donated a substantial sum of money for the development of a centre for entrepreneurship at Lund University. Why? He himself puts it:

»In the long term, I hope there will be more and better companies emerging from academia, but also that the programme will contribute to a greater understanding of the conditions for private companies and create interesting research results.«

Inaugurated in January 2012, the Sten K. Johnson Centre for Entrepreneurship has produced a number of knowledgeable entrepreneurs and a wealth of interesting research. In addition, it has helped bridge academia and private companies, as well as developed an extensive international network. The centre has expanded to 20 co-workers and will continue to grow due to new exciting projects abroad and internally at Lund University.

About Sten K. Johnson Centre for Entrepreneurship
Sten K. Johnson Centre for Entrepreneurship provides education in, about and for entrepreneurship, targeting national and international stakeholders, including students from all faculties and levels of study, as well as external partners. The action-oriented approach to teaching conveys knowledge based on contemporary research within the field.

The centre conducts cutting-edge research within two research areas: business creation and development as well as entrepreneurial teaching and learning. In addition Sten K. Johnson Centre for Entrepreneurship initiates and develops strategic relations for mutual knowledge exchange with national and international universities, alumni, partners from the industry and other stakeholders with interest in entrepreneurship.
